Cambridge Archive Editions Online are e-books covering a wide array of topics applicable to many lines of research across your campus

- Near & Middle East: Most titles in the CAEO concern Near and Middle East history. Trace British involvement in major issues of Middle Eastern history including diplomacy, trade, national development and conflict. Particularly noteworthy titles include Records of the Kurds, Islamic Movements in the Arab World, 1913-1966, Minorities in the Middle East: Christian Minorities, 1838-1967, and Minorities in the Middle East: Jewish Communities in Arab Countries, 1841-1974.
- Slavic, Balkan and Caucasus: Eleven titles covering political and ethnic boundary issues in Albania, Kosovo, Armenia, Bosnia, Croatia, Serbia, Montenegro, and Greece. Also covers the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia, and the Caucasus.
- East & Southeast Asia: Nine titles covering the Asian Pacific Rim: Japan, China, Hong Kong, Korea, Taiwan and, under the title Straits Settlements, Penang, Singapore, Malacca and Labuan.
- Great Britain and America: Comprised of official diplomatic correspondence between Britain and "the Colonies", and then the young United States of America, this set provides extraordinary insight into the shaping of a nation, from the territory being referred to in 1775 by King George III as "our Colonies and Plantations in North America," to its recognition as the "United States" by Britain in 1782 and the official cessation of hostilities in 1815.

With e-books, libraries serve many patrons and in an economical way, from undergrads getting an initial grasp on fundamental subjects of world history to graduate students and faculty looking for those golden needles in the proverbial haystack of primary sources. With a one-time purchase, your library will acquire a large, authoritative collection.
